

Historical DVDs for Homeschooling Studies

Douglas W. Jones, Jr. is a film maker with an undergraduate degree in history, a masters in Education and a masters in Social Work. His love of history is now being produced in DVD form presently centered around the 18th century American Frontier. Topics range from first person presentations to arts and skills of the Colonial frontiersmen and women.

Presentations are approximately 1 hour in length. Due to length of the films and lectures, they may be most appropriate for those students 13 years of age+.

These films were filmed at Fort Boonesborough, Kentucky, Pricketts Fort, West Virginia, and other historical locations.

Available DVDs

All Things Natural—Survival by the Longhunter

An Evening With Daniel Boone

Beekeeping in the 18th Century

Cloth Weaving Through the Eyes of a Weaver

Europeans in Native Clothing

Hunting Bag Construction

The Longhunter in 18th Century Kentucky

Powder Horns & Implements

Research and Documentation of the Frontier Longhunter

Trade Goods: Materials on the Frontier

This site created by Chefwin Web Designs, 2007.

That's Just Muggs Productions

Douglas W. Jones, Jr.

P. O. Box 22326

Lexington, Kentucky 40522

dwjonesjr@insightbb.com